RWART'S GREAT HOTEL,-The New York World says of Mr. A. T. Stewart's he el, that it will be a more extravagant affair had can be made in any sense self-support ng, and will turn out, like the Peabody enement houses, an enormous endow ments for the comfort of a comparatively few favored persons, without really promoting the welfare of the class. It is now three stories up, and begins to show its imosing fronts, which will compare with any wilding in the city for grandeur, both of size and style. Mr. Stewart has reasoned well in determining to make it a residence which everybody would be proud to se knowledge, and so insuring a crowded com plement of boarders at all times. He is also livishing comfort throughout all the

partments, and very wisely dividing them nto single and double rooms, some five hundred in number, at once respecting and cultivating that love of privacy which is near akin to modesty and self-respect. The partitions between the sleeping rooms are wenty-eight inches thick (!) on the third floor. This affords room for a separate ventilating shaft to every spartment, Heat, water and gas are also distributed in every room, and every room bas a full sized win dow looking either apon the street or upon the beautiful court yard and garden, about one hundred feet square, inside the build ing. The work proceeds slowly, as required for the solidification of such an enormous mass, and it is now doubtful whether the whole will be enclosed the present

IMMORTAL COMPLIMENT .- The New York World has this happily-conceived and admirable paragraph :

· If the wandering death-be) atterances of the two great Confederate chieftaine Stonewall " Jackson and Robert E. Lee' may be considered as final upon the matter then the late Confederate General, A. P. Hill, who lost his life at the closing Battle of the war, must be accepted by history as the most trusted condjutor of these eminent commanders. In his dying moments, Jack son exclaimed, "Send A. P. Hill to the front !" . Upon his death-bed, at Lexington, General Lee, as the telegraph states, his mind reverting to the bloody events of the war, 'once ordered his tent to be struck, and at another time desired Hill to be sert for.' Thus does it appear that, in the supreme moments of the closing hours of those men upon whose shoulders rested the heaviest burdens of the war up on the side of the Confederacy, came the utterance, born of delirium, but more solumn for that reason, that stemps General "And what do you do with the A. P. Hill as a man whose presence was to mistakes?" inquired the minister. he desired, and whose fidelity was arrayed "Why, sir, if large ones, I No higher compliment could be paid to his mend them; if small ones, I let memory than those parting words of Lee and Jackson "

The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly fulled.

Unacclimated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from topidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.
